I AM A MESS!

The Lenten season is upon us. Lent is one of my favorite seasons of the year as a pastor and as a Christian. Usually, people "give up" something for Lent. I have always believed that people engage in this tradition because they know whatever it is they are giving up is holding them back from being the person that they want to be (at least fully). That got me thinking about us as a people of faith. My conclusion? We're messy! I'm messy, you're messy, everybody is messy! No, I don't mean your house or car is messy (although it may be ☺). I mean that, despite our best intentions, our spirituality is still messy. We are all too human at times, even though we try so hard to not be. Lent is a reminder of that messiness.

During a sermon a few months ago I mentioned a book titled "Messy Spirituality" written by Mike Yaconelli. Mike was the creator of Youth Specialties (the most popular Christian youth resource provider at the time). Mike lived an extraordinary life, but it was his book "Messy Spirituality" that really had an impact on the lives of many people. I wanted to share these quotations from his book. Speaking of our messiness, Yaconelli says:

> "There is no room for pretending in the spiritual life … Pretending is the grease of modern non-relationships … But being real is the synonym for messy spirituality, because when we are real, our messiness is there for everyone to see."
> "… it turns out that what disqualifies you and me from 'spirituality'—the mess of our lives and our crippledness—is what most qualifies us to be chosen by Jesus … Some of us actually believe that until we choose the correct way to live, we aren't chooseable, that until we clean up the mess, Jesus won't have anything to do with us. The opposite is true. Until we admit we are a mess, Jesus won't have anything to do with us."
> "Spirituality is not about being fixed; it is about God's being present in the mess of our unfixedness."

As you can see, Mike makes up some words in those quotations, but I think that is the point. He is not trying to be perfect. Instead, he is trying to describe both his messiness and the work of Christ in that messiness, and his words will always fall short. Because, well, he is a mess! We all are! And that is okay. It is okay because we serve a Lord who immerses Himself into our mess and heals us. We serve a Lord who works miracles out of the messes we create.

Lent is a time to reflect upon our messiness and our need for Jesus. We look to the cross and then we eventually look to the wonderful resurrection. However, before we get to those significant events, we spend time in our messiness—reflecting on the mess—and reflecting on how Christ not only heals that mess but transforms it! Lent is indeed a very powerful time of the year. During our Lenten journey together, let us admit that we are indeed a mess. And, once again, admit that is okay. Why? Because we serve a God who specializes in working and transforming in our mess!

Lenten Blessings,
Pastor Lonnie †

One of the wonderful things about preschoolers is they know they have needs and they are not afraid to let you know. That's a good thing and something we want to use to help preschoolers see another need they have –a need we all have –and that is Jesus. Yes, I need Jesus is the focus this month. And, we know from experience that the older preschoolers get, the more they will need Jesus. Life can be tough. Having a friend like Jesus who knows us, loves us, and has the power to help us can truly change our lives. After all, that's what friends do. They help one another when they need it. And there is no better friend than Jesus.

This month on Sundays, Club 252 & TaborTWEENS begin Page Turner: A 4-week series from the New Testament on Jesus' Ministry. Page-turners are exciting books, the kind you don't want to put down, the kind you would stay up extra late to read. Books are exciting when we can find ourselves in the stories and imagine being a part of the adventure. This month we are going to look at some of the page-turning stories of the Bible. Each of these stories has something valuable to teach us about our patient and powerful God who prepares us to fight temptation and celebrates us, the heroes in our own real-life adventures!

On Wednesdays, Club 252 & TaborTWEENS will participate in the church wide study entitled "The Story of Jesus."

March

March is here and it's a great time to be involved in our student ministry. I have seen some recent growth at Main Event on Sunday night and strong numbers in our confirmation class. Our Spring Retreat March 4-6 is full and I'm excited about the calendar of events. I would love to see your student join us as we grow in Christ and build a strong community.

Our student, adult and leader's focus groups have met and the final assessment report has been submitted. This has been a fun and informative process. The process will begin soon to find our next student pastor. We ask for your prayers and continued input as we listen to God and discern the right fit for Mount Tabor student ministry leadership.

The Shoaf Memorial Grant is an awesome way to help pay for your summer dreams. Headed out on a trip? Want to go to that camp? Need help financing your plans? Apply now as a way to remember one of our Mount Tabor own Ryan Shoaf.

Journeying through Lent with St. Patrick

This year, the month of March holds two particular events in the Christian calendar: Ash Wednesday (March 2), which marks the beginning of Lent, and St. Patrick's Day (March 17), which marks the traditional death date of St. Patrick, a fifth-century missionary to Ireland.

Despite the secularization of the holiday, St. Patrick's Day originated as a feast day commemorating a very real person. Though many of the legends surrounding his life have little to no historical basis (he certainly did not banish snakes from the island), his actual life, as documented in his autobiography, the Confession of Saint Patrick, displays the love, humility, and longsuffering that are hallmarks of the Lenten journey we take every year.

Patrick was born in Roman Britain, but was captured and enslaved by Irish pirates at the age of 16. For six years he worked as a slave, tending flocks. He recounts that during his captivity, "[I] remember[ed] my transgressions and turn[ed] with all my heart to the Lord my God, who had regard for my insignificance and pitied my youth and ignorance. And he watched over me before I knew him, and before I learned sense or even distinguished between good and evil, and he protected me, and consoled me as a father would his son."

One day he heard a voice speak to him, saying, "Behold, your ship is ready." He fled from his master and eventually made his way back to Britain. But he was not long with his family before he had a vision in the night, in which the Irish called to him: "'We beg you, holy youth, that you shall come and shall walk again among us." Patrick returned to Ireland, and spent his life establishing the church there.

Though he could not have seen it at the time, Patrick's captivity and his years-long journey to return home prepared him for his calling–a calling that brought him back to the last place he would have expected: Ireland. Our own journeys, often through experiences of exile, captivity, or longing for home, are similarly guided by God's hand, even when we cannot see how. One anonymous Irish poet in the eight century, perhaps inspired by Patrick, crafted this well-known prayer for God's guidance in our journeys:

Be thou my vision, O Lord of my heart;
naught be all else to me, save that thou art.
Thou my best thought, by day or by night,
waking or sleeping, thy presence my light. †
